

Video Transcript – Raimonda Kesler Talks About Diversity

My name is Raimonda Kesler and an in charge accountant with the firm. I will be starting my fifth year with Cray Kaiser shortly in just a month. After running my own business and then working in the private industry and raising children. I completed an accounting degree, got my CPA license, and I really wanted to work in public accounting. That's when I came to Cray Kaiser and here I am today. I like the culture where everybody knows everybody, it becomes your second family. We are very diverse also, different backgrounds, cultures, kind of never boring here. I also feel valued here. My work is valued and I am encouraged to become the best version of myself.
